JUDGE DAVIS CHARGES THE GRAND JURY. A CAREFUL INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE IN THE

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER. Part I. of the Supreme Court was crowded yesterday morning with a throng of people who wished to hear Chief Justice Davis's charge to the Grand Jury, especially empanelled in the Court of Oyer and Terminer to investigate the charges of fraud in the Water Bureau of the Department of Public Works and in other city departments. Before the drawing of the Grand Jury, the trial of William Porter for the murder of John Walsh was adjourned until Friday next. The following Grand Jurors were then empanelled:

Judge Davis, in charging the jury, spoke first of their power and duties, and then said:

I think I am justified in going so far as to point out to you the necessity of certain kinds of investigation that, it is not weigh heavily on the minds of all thinking people in this community. Some investigations which have been made in respect to the business affairs of your city in the various departments of its organization have not been thought to be, for certain reasons, sufficient to justify either accusation or exculpation of any person who may be supposed guilty. This great city, raising and disbursing taxes to a vast amount, becomes a for its financial affairs. There is not of extreme anxiety in respect to the manage of morals, justice or common-sense that mount, becomes a for its financial affairs. There is not expectably every Grand the cavy burden imposed on the sepecial very grand of every public effects of morals and most especially every Grand the leavy burden imposed on the people of this city by its enormous taxation is not used for any purpose except those for which it is allowed by the laws of the land.

One would think that all public officers, especially whose in charge of the financial affairs of this Grand rought whose hands such immense sums in common sense that they are the remaining the funds with they are been such as the common sense that they are the remaining the funds with they are derived and the people. Now, it may become part of your of the financial affairs of this city. It seems to be the general opinion that that duty will be by the ten and board of the people. Now, it may become part of your of the financial affairs of this city. It seems to be the general opinion that that duty will be by the bust and board of the people. Now, it may become part of your of the financial affairs of this city. It seems to be the general opinion that the duty will be by the bust and the proposed of the financial affairs of this city, it is tigations shall result in showing that, notwithstanding all rumors and all suspicions, nevertheless your several departments are managed honestly and with good judgment.

Judge Davis then called the attention of the "jury to the statutes which make criminal offences of the wrongful acts of public officers, under which indictments, if those officers were guilty, would be found. He said that because he had spoken of only two branches of the City Government, the Grand Jury would not from that infer that he intended to exclude any others. He referred to the charges against employes in the office of the Commissioner of Jurors, corruption in which had been exposed in open court. The frands and extortions might have been much more extensive than the public magined, and much dishonesty might yet remain there concealed from the public knowledge. He called especial attention to the Board of Excise, saying that there were grave charges that houses of bad repute, gumbling dens and the resorts of thives had been heensed by that board and were under the protection of the police. The city had recently been startled with the report of a double murder in one of these licensed dens. It was a most astonishing thing that that portion of the city whose duty it was to see that the law was enforced could regard the commission of such an act with rejoicing, and yet it was said that the Police Department expressed satisfaction over the violent death of the two criminals. It showed an appalling condition of public sentiment, and it was the duty of the Grand Jury to see that such violations of the law were rendered less easy, and that these resorts of the criminal classes were not legalized and protected by the city. The Grand Jury should take action tending to the correction of these abuses. If citizens were not protected in their rights, the whole political structure of the country would fall to the ground.

The Court was then adjourned until Friday, and the Grand Jury settired to Part III. of the Superior Court to begin their investig

THE NEWARK BURGLAR IDENTIFIED.

Coroner Read, of Newark, beld an inquest yester-day afternoon in regard to the death of the burglar shot at Woodside on Saturday morning. Mrs. Choate was present with her two young daughters. She related in her testimony the story of the shoot-ing. A juror asked the witness if the burglar had disturbed anything in the room. She answered, "No sir, nothing but me." Homer Choate's testimony was substantially the same as his published state-ment.

was substantially the same as his published statement.

William A. Wilcox, a printer by trade, who said he worked at Vinegar Hill near Lyons Farms, testified that he had reason to believe that the burglar was his brother. The witness said that, having ran away from his home in New-Brunswick, N. J., in boy-hood, he had lost track of the members of his family. In 1879 he worked in Newark at his trade, and one day he received a letter signed Exra C. Wilcox. It was dated from Little Valley, Cattaraugus County, N. Y. The writer said that he was a younger brother of the witness, and asked him to come and see him, as he was in trouble. The witness found that Ezra was in jail on a charge of grand lareeny, but appeared to know all the facts about his family, and gave him the impression that his story was true. A year ago he had occasion to visit Auburn Prison, and there again saw Ezra, who was serving another term for grand lareeny. The witness asserted that a stranger informed him that Ezra was dead, and he was directed to the Morgue. There he recognized the body by an anchor and some initials pricked in India ink on the strue. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable killing.

arm. The witness was closely questioned, but stuck to his story.

The jury returned a verdict of justinable killing. Among the prisoners contined in the jail at Newark is William Livingstone, a New-York burglar familiar with the New-York criminal fraternity. He says that from the description given of the burglar he believes him to be James Cavanagh, a "second-story man," or climber, who has lived in the Fifteenth Precinct in New-York and is well-known to the police of that precinct. The initials "J. C." are marked in india ink on the arm of the dead man, William Bray, the signalman at the Broadest. crossing of the Morris and Essex Railroad, identified the body yesterday as that of a man who reached Newark on the 10:23 train from New-York on Friday night and talked with him for some time.

and during the voyage Congressmen Hewitt and Reed interested themselves to see that mother and child had the best of eare. Then they took up a subscription to procure the young mother and child a first-class passage to the West, and raised more than sufficient to meet the expense, there being a total of $57.71. The mother, anxious to recognize the great kindness of Captain Kennedy and Mr. Hewitt, concluded to name the child after them. The mother and child went on their way rejoicing in a section of a sleeping car by the Eric Road last night.

HEATING THE BRIDGE CARS.

THREE PLANS UNDER CONSIDERATION.

TRAVEL ON THE BRIDGE-A NEW LOCOMOTIVE OR-DERED-THE ELEVATED STATION IN CHATHAM-ST.

TRAVEL ON THE BRIDGE—A NEW LOCOMOTIVE ORDERED—THE ELEVATED STATION IN CHATHAM-ST.

The November meeting of the Bridge trustees was held yesterday, twelve of the twenty trustees being present. The secretary's report showed total receipts of $15,236,767 63 and expenditures of $15,167,723 29. A centract for fitting up the warehouse in block D under the New-York approach was made for $49,000. A contract, for an additional switching locometrive to cost $4,155, made by President Kingsley, was approved by the trustees. Treasurer Wittle reported receipts from pedestrians $39,647, from vehicles $38,110 and from car passengers $33,114, making a total of $110,871 for the twenty-four weeks since the bridge was opened. The total number of foot passengers up to November 8 was 3,964,700, and of car passengers 662,280.

Superintendent Martin reported that the work on the warshouse and the car storehouse was going on satisfactorily. The total number of passengers crossing the Bridge up to yesterday was 5,313,140. Three methods for heating the cars had been singested—one by pipes under the car seats filled with a chemical compound which crystallized at a low temperature and gave out heat, costing $240 a car; another by pipes under the seats filled with hot salt water, costing $175 a car; and a third by stoves under the cars, heating water which automatically circulated, costing $200 a car, Mr. Martin said that he had fitted up a car with each method, and experiments would be made soon. The matter of heating the cars was referred to the president with power. Mr. Martin further stated that in one hour yesterday morning 2,100 passengers had been taken in the cars from the Brooklyn station. At this rate, 37,800 could be carried in the eighteen bours of the day during which the cars run, or 75,600 from both ends of the Bridge. They could be carried at a cost of one-half cent each, if that many passengers could be secured; at present the cost was a little over 2 cents.

The communication was laid upon the table without debate.

Trustees Kingsley and Stranahan recently conferred with David Dudley Field, the counsel for the Manhattan Railway Company, with a view to effect an amicable arrangement in regard to the Chatham Street station. Mr. Stranahan refused to say yesterday whether or not a compromise was suggested by which the Bridge tracks would be extended upon the posts and platform of the station, and that a new station for the elevated road be built further up Chatham-st. He said, however, that his ideas were to make the Bridge of the greatest use to the greatest number, and to hasten rapid transit. The switching facilities needed upon the Bridge at the New-York end could only be secured by extending the railroad aeross Chatham-st, and Centre-st., and the City Hail Park.

THE POLICE PENSION FUND.

WHAT THE COMMISSIONERS SAY ABOUT IT.

WHAT THE COMMISSIONERS SAY ABOUT IT.

The Police Commissioners yesterday expressed a desire to have the public informed, through The Tribung. or efforts which they have made to preserve the Police Pension Fund. They stated also that their recent communication to Mayor Edson regarding the rapid depletion of the fund was not sent in order to thrust upon him any responsibility for measures of relief. It was intended to call the attention of the public to the need of proper action on the part of the Legislature. The Mayor cooperated with them last winter in the effort to have a proper bill passed. They expect the same assistance at the next session of the Legislature and they have taken steps to have a Pension bill introduced in the Assembly early in the session. The preparation of the bill has been intrusted to Commissioner Matthews.

in the Assembly early in the session. The preparation of the bill has been intrusted to Commissioner Matthews.

"The depletion of the Police Pension Fund, caused by the decision of the Court of Appeals in the Ryan case," Mr. Mathews said, "has been the cause of much trouble to the Board of Police. I wish to say that the remarks in The Tribune, today about the Pension Fund are timely and fair, except that they do not give the Commissioners credit for what they have done and are trying to do in the matter. It is true that the burden of supporting the fund mist not be imposed on the taxpayers. The Commissioners took that view last winter when they tried to get a Pension bill passed, for if the present fund thats completely it is expected that the claims of the pensioners now on the rolls will have to be paid out of the city treasury. The Commissioners also think that the beneficiaries of the fund should be those who have contributed to it. I was asked by the other members of the Beard to prepare a bill last winter, and I worked over it a long time. Corporation Counsel Andrews and Peter B. Olney worked with me in its preparation, and Mr. Olney introduced it in the Assembly. The bill was indorsed by Mayor Edson also. It passed the Assembly, but failed in the Senate, Mr. Nichols and I went to Athany, and I wrote to many members of the Legislature regarding the bill, but it died from neglect on the part of Senators."

"What was the main feature of the bill 1"
"In order to obviate the decision in the Ryan case, there was a special section authorizing the Police Commissioners to deduct sums from the pay of sick policemen. All such sums were to be paid into the Pension Fund. The money thus raised will be the main revenue of the fund. I have estimated that it would amount to about $150,000 per year. Other sources of revenue would be the mes inflicted on members of the force; sales of lost and unclaimed property, and percentages on rewards given to officers." What was the main feature of the bill ?"

"The bill will be substantially like the last one, but it is intended to add another source of revenue. We shall ask for from 15 per cent to 25 per cent of the Excise moneys to be added to the fund until the claims arising out of the Ryan decision are paid."

MUCH ADO ABOUT LITTLE.

MUCH ADO ABOUT LITTLE.

The Ecening Telegram yesterday devoted half a column to a reported occurrence in the Produce Exchange which did not take place. It represented that there was almost a riot among the members on saturday, resulting in the injury of Astley Atkins, who was said to be confined to his house; that several windows were smashed; that charges were being prepared against twenty or thirty members for flag ant violation of the rules; and that a special meeting was held to take testimony to present to the Governing Committee.

The facts are: There is no Governing Committee in the Produce Exchange. The Floor Committee did not hold a meeting or take testimony. Charges have not been preferred against a single member. Mr. Atkins, who was said to have received serious injuries, was on the floor, and with other members indiginantly declared that the report as published was wholly faise. He and others said that at 2:55 p. m. on Saturday there was a little froite such as occurs on every other day after the close of business, and paper bags of corn and oats were thrown, but no person was angered or injured. One pane of glass in a window was broken. Superintendent Fletcher said that no action had been taken, no complaint had been made, and in fact nothing was thought of the matter until The Telegram's story was published.

THE PRESBYTERY OF NEW-YORK.

THE PRESBYTERY OF NEW-YORK.

The Presbytery of New-York held its monthly meeting yesterday in the Scotch Church in West Fourteenth-st. It was decided to organize Faith Chapel, at No. 423 West Forty-sixtb-st., into a Presbyterian Church. The Rev. James H. Hoadley is the pastor of this society, which until recently has been a mission of the West Presbyterian Church. The University Place Presbyterian Church was given permission to extend a call to the Kev. George Alexander, of Schenectady.

A committee of which the Rev. Mr. Mingins was chairman reported that the Church of the Sea and Land, at Market and Henry sts., could not become wholly eeff-supporting and it would require aid from the Presbytery to continue its existence, and suggested that the church cease to make any definite effort for scannen because there was ample provision made for them by the neighboring churches, and further suggested that such changes should be made as would give the people a close pastoral oversight and reach the resident population. It was finally decided to consider the subject on next Tuesday.

THE TUG-BOAT CRONIN WRECKED BY THE CATTLE-BOAT NEWARK—ONE MAN KILLED.

A collision, which resulted in the death of one man, occurred about 9:30 a. m. yesterday off Pier No. 27, East River, between the tug-boat B. S. Cronin, of this city, and the cattle-boat Newark, owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The Cronin, with the barge California, laden with oil, in tow, was making for Pier 27, when she was compelled to stop in mid-stream and allow the Crystal Wave to pass her on the port side. A strong tide was running at the time, and the tug began drifting down the stream. At this moment the Newark, laden with cattle, came up the river on her way to Williamsburg and crashed, head on, into the broadside of the Cronin, completely demolishing her upper works.

John McCarty, the captain of the Cronin, and a John McCarty, the captain of the Cronin, and a deck hand, seeing that a collision was inevitable, jumped from the tug to the California and escaped nijury. Charles Cooper, the engineer, of No. 166 fluntington-st., Brooklyn, was caught between the timbers and badly cut above the head besides receiving internal injuries. He was taken to the Chambers Street Hospital, where he died from the effects of his injuries. The body was taken to his home. He was a married man and leaves a family. After the accident the Cronin effected a landing at Pier No. 27 whence she was taken to a ship-yard for repairs. She is damaged to the extent of $2,500. The Newark, which was uninjured, proceeded on her way.

The force of Park Police is so small that a man cannot be kept at the Prospect Park gate at Ninthave., and Fifteenth-st., and consequently the abounding goats of that region frequently find their way to the grass and shrubs in that part of the Park, preferring them to tomato cans and theatrical bills, though they are less gaudy. Many of the goats have been impounded and sold at auction, but their places do not long remain vacant.

SPIDER-LIFE WONDERS.

From The Boston Advertises.

The lecture in the Lowell Institute course by Professor Wood dealt with the phenomena of spider life. He began with a humorous account of the courtship of the spiders. The female is hereer and much larger than the male. There is peril to the latter in paying lifs addresses, "Love,me or I die" is not a phrase of poetry or sentiment with the male spider, but often is a literal statement of the tragical fact, and his usual experience is that he loses some of his legs in the rebuffs which he receives. In one tribe of spiders the female is 1,300 times larger than the male. Accordingly, said the lecturer, there is never any occasion among them to hold a woman's rights convention. The spider's thread is composed of innunerable small threads or fibres. One of these small threads has been estimated to be one two-millionth of the thickness of a hair. The spider spins three kinds of thread. One kind is of great strength, and of this the radiating or spoke-lines of the web are made. The cross-lines, or what a sailor might call the ratilius, are finer and are tenacious; that is, they have upon them little specks or globules of a very sticky gum. These specks are put on with even interspaces. They are set quite thickly along the line, and are what, in the first instance, catch and hold the legs or wings of the fly. Once caught in this fashion the prey is held scenne by threads flung over it somewhat in the manner of a lasso. The third kind of silk is that which the spider throws out in a mass or flood, by which it suddenly envelopes any prey of which it is somewhat afraid, as, for example, a wasp. A scientifie experimenter once drew out from the body of a single spider's thread, and it is more glossy and brilliant than that of the silk worm, being of a golden color. An enthusiastic entamologist secured enough of it for the weaving of a suit of clothes for Louis XIV.

A VERY HISTORIC TREE.

A responsibility of which Mr. Gladstone once little dreamed, and which may yet cause some disquietade to him and some of his most Protestant colleagues, has devolved upon this country as the protectors of modern Egypt. There exists, as some people are not yet aware, in the district of Mattarich, in Lower Egypt, a tree moder which the Holy Family is supposed to have taken shelter at the time of the flight into Egypt, As long ago as at the opening of the Snez Canal, when the Empress Eugénie was present at its inauguration, the then Khedive, whose religion did not impress him with as much veneration for this object of pious interest as was felt in it by his angust visitor, gallantly made a present of it to be surrounded with a time railing. Quite lately the relie has been purchased, together with the land on which it and its raving stands, by the Society of Jesus, which, as it is said, contemplates erecting on the spot a handsome sanctuary or chapel in home of the Holy Virgin. But in order to carry out this scheme the aid of some Government other than that of a Mussulman ruler seems to be required, and the Pairie, after describing the circumstances of the case, expresses a hope that, "thanks to the British Government, now become master of Egypt," this pious work will shortly be commenced. But whether such a scheme, initiated and advocated by the Jesuit purchasers, will commend itself to her Majesty's Ministers is a question about which the French paper is perhaps a little too con-sident.

A NEW PORTRAIT OF SHAKESPEARE.

From a Letter in The Full Mall Gazette.

Having carefully examined an original miniature of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, beautifully painted on copper, I am in a position to state that we now have a new likeness of the immortal dramatist at a period of his life when his earlier plays were produced, and before his popularity at the Court of England rendered him of European interest. It is a full face, age about thirty-five years, bearing the well-known, deep-eyed, pensive expression of countenance, massive and tall forchead, and the falling collar so familiar to us, but with the additional attraction of exact portraiture from the life itself by evidently a first-rate artist, when Shakespeare was in his prime as regards physical appearance and mental vigor. The holder has allowed it to remain open to view for a short time to savants and others interested, at Mr. Frank Buckland's.

Dangers from Catarrh

Depends upon the amount and extent of the Scrofnions infec-tion. Unquestionably many deaths from consumption can be traced to neglected catarrh. There is a violent distress, pro-trated and couching spells, the eyes weep, the nose discharges copiously, and the head seems about to split. In such cases Hood's sursaparilla corrects the catarrh by its direct action in discharging the poison from the blood through nature's great outlets, so that healthy, sound blood reaches the membranes and is wholesome.

Jerome Brownell, merchant and extensive miller at Victor. Jerome Brownell, merchant and extensive miller at Vic Ontario County, N. Y., writes: "I have need Hood's Sal parilla for my catarrh, and it has helped me. I county Hood's Sarsaparilla one of the best remedies for blood-dises to be obtained."
